Hasten Hebrew Academy Chanukkah Campaign kick-off dinner Nov. 8. Noted author and lecturer Avivah Zornberg will be the special guest and speaker for the evening. The Chanukah Campaign dinner will be held at the HHAI Cultural Arts Center and begins HHAI's annual fundraising campaign. The dollars raised through this campaign go a long way toward supporting the education your children receive at the Hasten Hebrew Academy. To attend the dinner a minimum donation of $250 per person or $500 per couple is required. Our Maccabee Society donors give a minimum of $2,500. Membership in this society includes attendance not only at the Chanukah dinner, but at the HAI-Life Awards dinner in the spring, as well. For those who are not able to donate in these amounts, we welcome any meaningful gift you can give. Every dollar donated is greatly appreciated.

JCRC Pizza and Politics

On Wed., Nov. 11, at 5:45 p.m., join JCRC for a legislative briefing, pizza, and an open forum with legislators from the greater Indianapolis area. The event is free, but you need to RSVP to David Sklar at d_sklar@indyjcrc.org.

A Man of Achievement

The Anti-Defamation League Honors Governor Mitchell E. Daniels, Jr.

The Anti-Defamation League (ADL) will present the Man of Achievement award to the Honorable Mitchell E. Daniels, Jr., governor of Indiana, for his dedication to ending discriminatory behavior through educating today's youth and fighting hate across the state. The event will take place at the Hyatt Regency in Indianapolis on Nov. 23.

"Governor Daniels has been a huge driving force to ending anti-Semitism, bigotry and hate in the state of Indiana," says Lonnie Nasatir, regional director of the ADL Greater Chicago/Upper Midwest Region. "He has reached out to all age groups and professions – from high school students to the police force – to provide the necessary education to change society."

The Indianapolis Public Schools Mission to Washington, D.C., gave Indiana public school students the opportunity to see the U.S. Holocaust

Trainers, influencing the lives of more than 60,000 students in the U.S. and abroad.

In May 2007, ADL's Midwest Investigative Researcher and the Midwest Area Counsel trained members of the FBI, the U.S. Attorney's Office for the Southern District of Indiana, the Indianapolis Metropolitan Police Department, the Joint Terrorism Task Force, the Indiana State Police, and others. The training focused on domestic terrorism, extremist groups, extremist use of the Internet, hate crimes, and a discussion on state and federal hate crime laws. ADL continues to provide hate crimes response training to the cadet class of the Indiana State Police Academy.

Museum and visit Howard University, where the landmark civil rights case Brown v. Board of Education took place. The ADL also provides ongoing anti-bias training in Indiana schools as part of the A World of Difference® program. Students become Peer Trainers, learning how to work with their peers to distinguish between personal freedom and discriminatory behavior. Since 1991, more than 5,000 students have been trained as Peer Trainers, influencing the lives of more than 60,000 students in the U.S. and abroad. In May 2007, ADL's Midwest Investigative Researcher and the Midwest Area Counsel trained members of the FBI, the U.S. Attorney's Office for the Southern District of Indiana, the Indianapolis Metropolitan Police Department, the Joint Terrorism Task Force, the Indiana State Police, and others. ADL continues to provide hate crimes response training to the cadet class of the Indiana State Police Academy. Abraham H. Foxman, ADL national director, will serve as the event's keynote speaker, presenting Governor Daniels with the Man of Achievement Award. The award dinner will take place Mon., Nov., 23, at the Hyatt Regency in Indianapolis, Ind., at 5:30 p.m. Tickets are $400.

Mickey's Corner with Astronaut David Wolf

Just Back from the International Space Station and Live at the JCC

On Tues., Dec. 15, at 7 p.m. Mickey Maurer will interview David Wolf. Not only is Dr. Wolf a fellow Hoosier, he is a graduate of the JCC's Early Childhood Education program and North Central High School. Dr. Wolf has ventured into space on three separate missions, including an extended stay on the Russian Spacecraft Mir, for a total of 158 days in space. For anyone fascinated by outer space, or with dreams of becoming an astronaut, or interested in the amazing stories of perhaps Indiana's most "well-traveled" native, Mickey's discussion and visual presentation with Dr. Wolf is a must! For more information, call the JCC at 251-9467. Tickets $10 general public / $5 JCC members. Tickets for sale at the door until sold out.

OBITUARIES

Simone Amar

Widaman Ludwig, 88

At the conclusion of a most beautiful life, lasting more than 88 years, Aug. 28, 1921 to Oct. 27, 2009, marks the beginning of Simone's final journey. Fluent in five languages, her love for poetry and Victor Hugo, cooking, French music, and family gatherings were the engine that sustained her extraordinary adventure through life. A World War II bride from Casablanca, Morocco, this rare beauty and captivating personality, this kind and giving soul is greatly loved and will be sorely missed by those she has touched and especially by the family she leaves behind: husband, James Ludwig; son, Charles (Nancy) Widaman; granddaughter, Lauren Widaman; sister, Esther Amar; brothers, Albert and Leon Amar; and many nieces and nephews in the U.S. and Canada. A funeral service took place Fri., Oct. 30, 2009, 2:00 p.m., at Beth-El Zedeck North Cemetery. Arrangements by Aaron-Ruben-Nelson Mortuary.

Julian Center children's library opens

Children who call The Julian Center a temporary home can now find literary refuge at the new shelter library established by Jewish Women International (JWI) and the Verizon Foundation. The Verizon Foundation donated $15,000 to fund JWI's children's library at The Julian Center, the newest of 32 libraries established in the nation, and the first in Indiana.

JWI's National Library Initiative is working to establish 100 children's libraries in domestic violence shelters across the United States. The Julian Center, which offers counseling, safe shelter and education for survivors of domestic violence and their families, has transformed an underutilized room into a library – complete with 250 new books, small and large rocking chairs, bookcases, a study table and chairs, carpet and a computer desk, chair and printer.

"All too often, women and children fleeing from an abusive home aren't able to bring anything with them," said Ann DeLaney, executive director of The Julian Center. "A library for children can be of particular comfort, especially when children are forced to leave behind all that is familiar and comfortable, such as books and toys."

JWI's National Library Initiative began in 2003 as an effort to reach the youngest victims of domestic violence and help set them on a path to educational stability, emotional recovery and future success. Children fleeing abusive situations often suffer from emotional trauma and an interruption in their education, which can lead to school and then workforce struggles. The National Library Initiative seeks to break the cycle of violence by creating safe havens within shelters where children can study, read, do homework and form a healthy bond with their mothers.

"Our National Library Initiative would not be as successful without the tremendous support of organizations like Verizon, an organization equally committed to domestic violence awareness and prevention," said Lori Weinstein, executive director of JWI. "We are so fortunate to have found such a devoted community partner with whom to join forces and make our society a better place."

The Verizon Foundation and Verizon Wireless are recognized nationally for their support of domestic violence awareness and prevention initiatives along with literacy programs. Last year, the Verizon Foundation invested nationwide nearly $5 million in community grants, technology solutions and volunteer hours.

Through its long-running HopeLine® phone recycling and reuse program that turns no-longer-used wireless phones into support for survivors of domestic violence, Verizon Wireless last year awarded more than $1.5 million in cash grants and 63 million minutes of service to help domestic violence organizations and their clients nationwide. In Indiana last year, the company donated nearly $200,000 in cash grants, phones and airtimes to local domestic violence agencies and shelters.

"This new library demonstrates our ongoing commitment to make a difference in our community," said Michelle Gilbert, public relations manager, Indiana/Kentucky/Michigan Region, Verizon Wireless, who delivered an additional 625 children's books donated by Verizon Wireless employees in Indianapolis. "We hope this library at The Julian Center feeds the creativity of children in temporary refuge and strengthens their desire to learn."

Community members are encouraged to help fill the shelves by donating new children's books to the library. For more information on how to make donations, please contact Linda Platt, of Jewish Women International, at 800-343-2823 or lp Platt@jwi.org.
